

Manhood: Moving beyond stereotypes

Everyone should be free to explore and develop who they are without the pressure of limiting stereotypes.

We know, however, that a lot of people still feel this pressure, and that masculine stereotypes contribute to men's high rates of suicide, depression and anxiety, as well as violence against women and other men.

Join us for a workshop where Jesuit Social Services' The Men's Project will host a conversation about the 'Man Box' and how we can move beyond harmful stereotypes in our lives.
